THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1901.

PREPARING THE WAY FOR GREAT BRITAIN.

There is pretence that Great Britain is seeking to force the United States into an alliance against Russia, which is termed a renewal of the alliance that existed between England and the United States against that power.

It is now to learn about a renewal of an alliance that has been denied from the beginning of the Boer war.
When it was charged or even intimated that an alliance existed between the United States and England it was denied at Washington. Those denials became pertinent, when the country of the United States was denied an alliance with an ally had a more intimate relationship with China.

It is claimed that the course of the English government on the Nicaragua canal treaty is intended to force the United States into an alliance, which is far fetched, to divert public attention from the defeat of the canal bill by the Senate. If it is intended to force the United States into a renewal of the alliance against Russia in China, when did the former alliance cease to exist?

When England entered upon the Boer war it became the duty from some cause of the United States to inform Russia that any appropriation by that power of Chinese territory would be deemed by the United States an unfriendly act. Is the late demand by Russia for Chinese territory any less an unfriendly act than it would have been at the opening of the Boer war?

The appropriation by Russia at this time should not be any less unfriendly than it would have been eighteen months ago, provided the United States sustains the same relation to Russia at this time that it sustained a year and a half ago and if relations have changed what has been the cause for the changes is a problem that cannot be solved on any reasonable hypothesis other than the existence of an alliance between the powers at the opening of the Boer war, which may have expired by its own limitation.

When secret understandings are entered into by governments which control their action, are not the people set aside by these secret arrangements?
Is not the will of the people's servants subordinated for the will of the people?

There is surely no way through which an escape will be made from a clear usurpation of power by those who indulge in such practices.

All open talk about an alliance between England and the United States is jingo of rank growth. There is talk about strained relations between the United States and England over the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and the construction of a canal over the isthmus, which is of the same character and growth as the talk about a forced alliance.

The whole matter is intended to cover the retreat of the Senate from a most distasteful abandonment of the rights of the people included in the Hepburn canal bill. It is nothing more or less than another "sow's ear" furnished by the cunning of the administration to the people, which the majority will begin to try to the amusement of those who furnished the sow's ear. It may be well to call to mind that Salisbury and others of the English cabinet were rejoicing over McKinley's re-election when the amendments to the canal treaty were before them to be accepted or rejected.

The intention is to occupy the minds of the people through a ruse which is the offspring of falsehood and counting, while the purpose of Ray and Pauncotote is accomplished regarding British control of the canal in some form. The newspaper talk about England calling "stop, thief," to Russia is still to be used in the make-up of such fabrics as the people desire to manufacture from it, as there is not anything connected with it that indicates that Great Britain is not fully agreed to the work of Russia in securing Manchuria.

A problem may arise respecting the source of knowledge which leads the writer to say that the cry of "stop, thief," is still for use by the people.
The answer is contained in the fact that England is not engaged in placing an additional rope on a warship or engaged in putting an additional clout of oil and paint upon a sea-going craft to direct the attention of Russia while NEVER IMITATED IN QUALITY.

A Perfect Combination.
The present method and beneficial effect of the well known remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., illustrates the almost obtaining the liquid laxative principle of plants known to be in the laxative and presenting it in a form most refreshing to the system and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, clearing the system of all dispeiling colds, headaches, fevers, gently yet promptly and ending one to enter one habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from any objectionable quality and substance and its setting on the system, live, and but the excellent warning or anything them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the California Fig Syrup Co., only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.

It cries "stop, thief," which should be sufficient in itself to direct the public mind to a conclusion in opposition to the existence of strained relations between England and the Boer of the north, or that there is any effort at this time to secure an alliance with the United States for the purpose of opposing Russia in China.

The Nicaraguan canal is the subject that requires attention and adjustment between the United States and England on the Hay-McKinley theory, and the problem for solution includes the manner of procedure necessary to humbly the people into a belief of a necessity there is for an adjustment of the canal problem in a way that will admit England to the position of a controlling power over the canal.

Queries of Prospectors Answered With Mathematical Exactitude.

R. H. Tuscarora; Adams, Sierra valley and J. D. E., Elko. The new Steamboat mining district concerning which you ask information is about 12 miles south of Reno and its high values were but recently discovered.
An immense ledge of thermal water has long been known to exist there and it was in prospecting for this that the discovery was made of a still larger ledge bearing remarkably "hot stuff."

Assays made up the date show from eighty thousand to fifteen million ounces of sixty-nine carat gold to the ton. What little gauge there is not quartz but diamonds of the hottest water. The ledge has a ruby hanging wall and an emerald foot wall.
In connection with this emerald foot wall it has been remarked that never till this last strike was anything green observed in the neighborhood of Steamboat Springs.

A most gratifying feature of the new strike is the fact that in the same district and at the same time there was developed an immeasurable quantity of that prime requisite for success in all mining ventures, hot air. So far no prospector has failed to strike this valuable deposit no matter whether his prospect hole was fifty feet deep or fifty inches deep. It is believed that the deposit is in the shape of a balloon with the biggest end where it comes handiest.

In consequence of the exceeding ampleness of the supply, hot air has of late been used with great freedom and effect in Reno, Carson and elsewhere, being applied in all manner of operations and projects from the pasing of a free public library bill or the purchase of a hose cart (fire wagon?) to the borrowing of four bits.

Smelter Trial
is Still on.

The plaintiff's case in the suit of the Bank of Nevada versus the Reno Smelting & Milling company occupied both morning and afternoon sessions of the District court yesterday.
Twenty-six exhibits were introduced.
The following witnesses were examined: R. L. Robins, General Turrittin, M. Schoelline and A. G. Fletcher.
At 4 p. m. the court adjourned until 9:30 this morning. The trial will probably occupy two day more.

The Tail of Balzie.

A harrowing tale is told in the latest number of the Argonaut by John Harold Hamlin of this city. The scene is laid at Steamboat Springs. The story was inspired by the recent earthquake that occurred there. It is an interesting yarn delightfully spun and labels the author "Promising Youth."

IRISH RACE
DEFENDED

A Correspondent Expresses His Opinion in no Uncertain Language.

ED JOURNAL: "Of course, it was no wish of P. J. Kelley's that he took a mud bath. His horse became frightened, turned quickly and gave Pat the unappreciated. Pat says he is going to sue the commissioners, and says: 'On spoiled a fine suit of clothes' in the dressed mud, an' Tom Hymers an' Grove Holcomb are to blame for havin' such dirty, nasty streets, an' shure Ol thought Ol would drown before hein' rescued.'"

The above recently appeared in the Reno Gazette, and I am of the opinion that the Gazette need expect but little credit for the same. Such description, or, rather, caricature, of the Irish race is quite characteristic of the editor of the Gazette. Time and again he eulogizes himself for having the good fortune of emanating from the hereditary enemy of the Irish race, and no doubt he is imbued and pregnant with the same disease. Hear him how he praises his relations across the "big pond."

In this manner Queen Victoria's father, the fourth son of George III, said in one of his speeches: "I am the friend of civil and religious liberty all the world over." The Queen was fortunate in both her parents in point of high character, ability and liberal sentiments.

Let the readers of the JOURNAL compare this with the following oath which King Edward VII took not long ago, and, indeed, every King and Queen for the last 200 years had to take. Here it is.

"I, Edward, do solemnly and sincerely, and in the presence of God, profess, testify and declare that I do believe that in the sacrament of our Lord's supper there is not any trans-ubstantiation of the elements of bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ at or after the consecration thereof by any person whatsoever, and that the invocation or adoration of the Virgin Mary or any other saint and sacrifice of the mass, as they are now used in the church of Rome, are superstitious and idolatrous; and I do solemnly in the presence of God profess, testify and declare that I do make this declaration and every part thereof in the plain and ordinary sense of the words as they are read unto me, as they are commonly understood by English Protestants, without any evasion, equivocation or mental reservation whatsoever, and without any dispensation already granted me for this purpose by the Pope or any other authority or person whatsoever, and without any hope of any such dispensation from any person whatsoever, and without thinking that I am or can be acquitted before God or man of any part thereof, although the Pope or any other person or persons or power whatsoever should dispense with or annul the same, or declare that it was null and void from the beginning."

Now, Brother Bragg, let us see how you are going to harmonize your version of Queen Victoria with the above oath. What an insult to the 12,000,000 Catholics which the King Edward reigns over, and still this is religious liberty!"

It is not very long since the English House of Parliament enacted laws de-barring the Irish from being educated, and, after making them as ignorant as they could, they called upon all mankind to behold the ignorant monsters.
I could go on indefinitely with similar indictments. But what's the use?

If the heading of this article did not refer to any person but the above gentleman therein named it would not be quite so bad, but that would not answer the purpose of the editor of the Gazette. He must drag in the whole Irish race.

It is said truthfully that if you want to wound John Bull in the heart you must not aim any higher than his pocket, for there is where his heart resides. And now that the editor of the Gazette has descended from that race (John Bull) no doubt he has inherited the pocket disease, so I propose to wound him there by shutting off the Gazette for the future. Let no man say this is boycott. No. It is simply justice, although I do not want any of my friends to do likewise.

The Irish race was a fair field, equal justice and no favors. The stage actor found that it did not pay to caricature the Irish race, but it remains for the editor of the Gazette to bring it to the front whenever it answers his purpose.

This article is already longer than I anticipated, for which I humbly ask the JOURNAL's pardon.
